

JAPS READY FOR CRISIS: MOVETROOPS

JAPANESE IN CHINA CONTINUE THEIR EXODUS AS SOLDIERS PREPARE FOR EVIL-UALITIES.

DELIVER NOTE TODAY

Ultimatum from Tokio Arrives at Peking and Will be Presented at Once—London Paper Scores Jap Policy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Tokio, May 6, 4:30 p. m.—It was officially announced here this afternoon that Japan had sent an ultimatum to China. The Kookumin states that in this ultimatum Japan stipulates that China must accept unconditionally the demands set forth. This ultimatum was decided upon by the imperial council. China has until 6 p. m. of May 9th to accept the provisions.

Ultimatum Presented. Peking, May 6.—The ultimatum of Japan to China reached the Japanese capital today. It probably was presented to the Chinese government this afternoon.

Japs Leave Mukden. Mukden, via Peking, May 6.—The Japanese consular orders issued May 5 resulted in a general flight of Japanese from Mukden the following day. The value of a gold yen increased 30 silver cents, and a rich harvest was reaped by exchange brokers. All Japanese civilians except a few bankers and railway officials have now left the city.

Japanese troops occupied the strategic positions in Mukden, while Chinese soldiers are reported to be moving into position south of the city. Many residents in that city are coming north.

Demand Drastic Measures. Tokio, April 22, by mail to Shanghai, May 6.—The world wide publication of the list of demands presented to China shortly after the defeat of the German garrison at Kiau Chow and which still are being negotiated between the two governments, coupled with the report of growing opposition to them in England and the attitude on this whole subject of the United States, has greatly embarrassed the Japanese government, from which the people expect much.

Various associations in Japan are clamoring for drastic measures against China. Everybody is discussing the possibility of war and speculating upon the nature and extent of the military campaign which would have to undertake should China refuse to cede. All parties and factions in the country are united in favor of Japan establishing predominance in the Far East.

Press Backs Government. The semi-official press is urging the government to stand firm in spite of the criticism of foreign countries and it is giving expression to the belief that the failure of the present negotiations will excite the profound disappointment and indignation of the Japanese people.

The statements given out today that Japan proposes to communicate to China the irreducible minimum of her demands, have been followed later by an ultimatum should China prove to be intractable, have met with popular approval. Japanese officials are denouncing there is any purpose of sending an ultimatum to China, but the ultimatum is to be understood among the Japanese that the situation has reached the crisis. A dispatch received here from Sasebo, the naval base, saying that the negotiations with China have broken off, after the and the Japanese fleet would sail for north of China.

American Note Answered. The Japanese government has replied verbally to the note from the American note on the subject of the Chinese situation. It is seeking to assure America that it has no intention of violating the Root agreement regarding the open door in China or prejudicing the plight of Americans in China.

The greatest interest exists today among the Japanese as to whether the Chinese states is satisfied with Japan's explanation of the Chinese policy.

The departure from Japan April 17, on leave of absence, of George W. Guinn, the American ambassador, is interpreted here as indicating that Japan and the United States are in accord on this question.

Prepare for Siege. Hankow, via Peking, May 6.—The Japanese barracks here have been prepared for a siege. Following the Chinese advice, many Japanese have fled from the city, although the Japanese appear wholly indifferent.

Scores Jap Policy. London, May 6.—The Daily News today publishes an editorial article on the Chinese situation which reads in part: "It would be the last and most bitter tragedy of this war if one of its consequences be that an undefeated nation whose independence and integrity the Anglo-Japanese alliance has guaranteed, is to be despoiled by one of the signatories of that alliance."

CHINESE PRESIDENT SEEKING TO AVERT TROUBLE WITH JAPS

Yuan Shi Kai.

President Yuan Shi Kai of China is bending every effort to maintain an honorable peace with Japan. His efforts are not proving very fruitful, however, as the Japanese insist upon concessions which the Chinese do not feel they can grant with honor.

War News Summary.

Dispatches from French and British sources say further successes have been won by the allies. An attack by Turks on the encampment at Kithia resulted disastrously for them, according to these advices, the Turks having left 1,500 dead behind them after their repulse. The British correspondent asserted that the top of the Peninsula and entire western side were under control of the allies.

Rome, Vienna and Berlin advices indicated a crisis had come in the negotiations between Italy and Austria. Claims were made in Petrograd that the victory of the Russian army of the Caucasus over the Turks, announced last night, was an important and decisive one. A force of 30,000 Turks which attacked the Russians in Dikhan Khor region was said to have been repulsed with heavy losses and compelled to retire in disorder.

Turks Deny Allies' Claim. Constantinople, May 6.—The wireless to Berlin and London, May 6.—The following official statement regarding the operations in the Dardanelles was issued this afternoon by the Turkish war office: "The unfavorable situation of the enemy in the Dardanelles remains unchanged. Reports from Athens regarding occupation of Gallipoli and Nagara by landing forces are untrue. The Gallipoli peninsula is entirely at our disposal for military movements. The enemy took only two points on the coast. Sedid Behr and Arithra points to the constant firing of his ships. The enemy is unable to make any move against the Turkish entrenchments. The Asiatic coast is freed of our enemy."

AGED WOMAN'S LIFE SAVED WITH OXYGEN

Mrs. William Moyle of Shopiere, Has Dangerous Attack While Walking on Academy Street.

Prompt medical attention saved the life of Mrs. William Moyle of Shopiere, Wisconsin, at the Mercy hospital, where she was rushed after a severe attack of edema of the lungs, caused by heart failure. Mrs. Moyle is going to the Northwest on a train at one o'clock this afternoon, when she was seized with an attack of heart trouble that caused her lungs to fill with water, preventing oxygen from reaching the lungs. In front of the Newell lunch car she fell prostrate on the walk and was carried into the cafe, where it was feared she would die before medical aid could reach her.

Dr. Fred Sutherland was called and after giving the woman first aid treatment, had her sent to the hospital, where she was revived by oxygen treatment. She passed the danger point and unless pneumonia sets in, it is expected the woman has an even chance for recovery. She is the wife of the Methodist minister at Shopiere. Mrs. Moyle suffered a similar attack five years ago.

PRESIDENT VAN HISE FAVORS BOARD PLANS

SUBSTITUTE AMENDMENT TO CENTRAL EDUCATION BILL IS GIVEN ENDORSEMENT.

IS BIG IMPROVEMENT

See Features in Amendment That Would Correct Financial System from Rural School to University.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., May 6.—President C. R. Van Hise of the state university, discussing the substitute amendment to the central board of education bill before a joint meeting of the education committees yesterday afternoon, gave it his endorsement in a general way as a great improvement over the original bill, although seeing in it a radical defect, incidentally. The university head said he saw no sound reason why, if a central board be established, it should not be extended to embrace supervision over all schools, rural as well.

T. C. Richmond made the principal appearance for the bill, making an extended speech in which he pointed out the advantages which he claimed are now lacking under the regency plan of administration. William F. Wolfe of La Crosse, a normal school regent, gave the bill a severe criticism, saying that the bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory. Evan A. Evans of Baraboo said that the bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory. The bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory.

A Business Board. President Van Hise said that because the substitute board of estimates and apportionment to handle budgetary matters and because a non-paid board is created, continuing the honorary quality of the board, the bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory. The bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory.

President Van Hise continued that educational policies and administration rest with the faculties and president, and saw in this the preservation of the academic freedom of the institution. He said that the bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory. The bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory.

Favorable Features. President Van Hise saw as a further meritorious feature of the substitute bill the fact that the entire educational system of the state from the rural schools to the university. Another feature he liked was that it makes the executive officer of the institution the one who will make all nominations for subordinates other than educational, a high class man with broad experience in education. The next serious defect he saw was a question whether or not it is possible for one board to govern the entire educational interests of the state as well as the present system which has a number of boards for each school or class of schools. If the measure is adopted he believed the board must confine itself to the government rather than the administration of the institution under its charge. President Van Hise believed the most important duty this board will have at first is the appointment of a commissioner of education to take charge of the entire educational system of the state.

Facts on Defect. Mr. Wolfe declared the bill did not strike at the root of the defects in the educational system. If, he said, the legislature should enact a minimum wage for teachers, making it illegal to employ a teacher for less than a certain amount, it would compel rural communities to provide good schools, at least as good as the average barn and ruralize the country. He said that the bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory. The bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory.

President C. G. Pearce of the Milwaukee normal school advised the committee to go slow in making radical changes of this character. Like the normal school, he said, the normal school is a business concern and should be run on a business basis. He said that the bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory. The bill, as presented, would not have been satisfactory.

Sanity Case Jury. Testimony and Pleas Close and Jury Goes Out Late Today.—Physicians' Testimony Conflicts. Counsel of the plaintiff finished his plea to the jury at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon in the county court before Judge Clegg in the case to determine the mental condition of Mrs. Martha Isaacson, the aged Beloit woman whose actions at various times have led to sanity proceedings.

St. D. Woolsey, Beloit attorney for Edward Myers and other neighbors of Mrs. Isaacson, who signed the complaint, attempted to show from the testimony of witnesses that Mrs. Isaacson's mental condition was such that she was subject to delusions and hallucinations at divers times.

Surgeons who examined Mrs. Isaacson were not at all unanimous in their decision as to her mental condition. Following explanations by Judge Field relative to sanity cases the jury retired to consider a verdict.

PENS NOTE HE WILL DO MORE MURDERING OF YOUNG CHILDREN

New York Slayer Writes Mother of Latest Victim He Will Continue Killing When Excitement Subsides.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, May 6.—The letter writing murderer who killed five year old Eleanor Cohn and four year old Charles Murray, has written to the Murray boy's mother that he will commit another murder when the excitement over her child's death subsides.

The letter was received today at the time the body was about to be buried. The missive was taken to the police headquarters to be examined for finger prints.

The murder of the little boy, who was killed by wounds in his abdomen the night of May 3, was preceded by a similar threat contained in a letter addressed to Mrs. Cohn, the mother of the little girl who was killed March 28. Both children, the police believe, were killed by the same person.

The letter to Mrs. Murray was mailed in this city at 7:30 o'clock last night and delivered today while preparations were being made for funeral services for the boy. In the belief that the slayer would be in the neighborhood at the time of the funeral, a number of detectives mingled with the crowd outside the Murray home.

One suspect, a man seen muttering to himself, was arrested, but later released after telling a story that convinced the police he knew nothing of the crime. East side mothers accompanied their children to and from school, thoroughly alarmed, in the neighborhood today.

AUSTRIANS WINNING ON GALICIAN FRONT

MAKE GAINS AGAINST RUSSIANS IN BATTLE OF MOST DESPERATE CHARACTER.

GERMANS NEAR YPRES

Counter Attacks at Hill No. 60 Prove Successful and Teuton Line Now Stretched Three Miles From Town.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Vienna, via London, May 6.—The victorious Austrian advance continues on the entire east Galician front, according to official announcements made here today. Russian prisoners to the number of 50,000 have been taken.

A battle of the most desperate character is being fought in the west of the western Galician front. The Austro-German armies continued to gain ground on the southern section of the front, capturing position after position from the Russian army.

Contrary Report. Geneva, May 6.—The Tribune de Geneve has received a dispatch saying that the Austro-German army of 250,000 men, according to the Russian center at Gorlic has failed. The losses have been heavy and the Austro-German forces have been compelled to retreat to the west.

Germans Nearer Ypres. London, May 6.—For the first time since the British forced the Germans to retreat in battle by the Ypres, the soldiers of Emperor William have been partly successful in their counter attacks, and no advice to the contrary having been received it is assumed that the Germans are still holding today the positions they claimed upon the hill by the use of gas.

In the meanwhile the German line to the east of Ypres is within three miles of the town. The British press does not seem to deny or minimize the persistence of this German offensive, but there is no disposition to lament the throwing in of the British front line in view of the hard fighting which is expected.

Plan New Assault. Nearly all the special news dispatches from northern France and Belgium indicate that the Germans are massing men for a new assault in the direction of the French ports, and as gas now seems to be a regular adjunct of the German attacks, the alchemy of it will play an important part hereafter whenever the direction of the wind is favorable to the Germans.

The suggestion that Great Britain adopt measures in retaliation for the use of gas by the Germans was taken up by the British cabinet today. Joseph King, representing the north district of Somerset in the house of commons, announced his intention of introducing a resolution on the subject on Tuesday.

AUSTRIANS DETAIN EX-SENATOR YOUNG

Suspicious of Espionage Directed Against His Companion, Cause Arrest—Released With Apologies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Vienna, via London, May 6.—Former United States Senator La Fayette Young of Des Moines, Iowa, accompanied by former American deputy consul at Bern, Switzerland, was arrested at Innsbruck, Austria, yesterday on suspicion of espionage directed against Mr. Young's companion.

Mr. Young was promptly released with apologies after a few hours' detention in his hotel, but his companion was held in custody in the hotel today before he was able to satisfy the suspicions of the authorities, who apparently had been warned to look for a man of the same name. Mr. Young arrived in Vienna this morning. Speaking of the incident he said he saw no reason for complaint.

Representative on Newspaper. Des Moines, Ia., May 6.—Former Senator Young left here for his European tour January 26, first visiting London, where he spent a month. He was in Belgium for ten days, and since has been in Paris and on French battlefields. He was in the French trenches in the northern part of France in the middle of April.

OFFICIAL NAVY LIST WITHOUT SHIP NAMES APPEAR IN ENGLAND.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, May 6.—The first official Navy list ever issued without the names of ships has just appeared. It was evidently considered necessary to conceal from the Germans any data which might reveal the full strength of the British Navy.

The list of officers, and men on active service covers eighty pages of double columns, while the Royal Naval Reserve occupies 87 pages more. A large number of the volunteer reservists hold temporary commissions. Among them are the following: The Duke of Manchester, the Duke of Westminster, Viscount Young, Lord Longborough, of Olympic Games fame, Lt. Col. Chas. Monner, the writer of economics; and others.

There are several pages of names of ladies composing Queen Alexandra's Royal Naval Nursing Service. The list of sick quarters in all parts of the United Kingdom covers eight pages.

PROPOSED CHANGES TO INCOME TAX LAW BALKED IN SENATE

Two Bills Lowering Rate and Providing Additional Exemptions Are Killed at Today's Session.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, May 6.—The temper of the senate to make no radical changes in the income tax law was manifested today when it killed two bills lowering the rate of taxation and increasing the exemptions for individuals and married couples, while at the same time it advanced the Baxter bill exempting the rental value of a homestead when occupied by the owner.

The assembly concurred in the Baxter bill requiring employers of labor, except those engaged in lumbering, circus and traveling shows, to pay their employees twice a month. The bill now goes to the governor.

In the lower house a committee unanimously recommended the death of two bills to have income assessments made by local assessors rather than by men appointed by the state tax commission.

As amended to prove that when a new license is granted an existing license should be surrendered, thus leaving the number of saloons and places where a liquor license is held to be acquired by a liquor license despite the Barker law was engrossed by the senate. The assembly passed a bill for the election of county boards biennially for terms of two years.

SINK DANISH BOAT FOR CHINESE PORTS

Steamer Cathay Sent to Bottom in North Sea Last Night—No Lives Lost.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, May 6.—The steamer Cathay from Copenhagen for Chinese ports, was either mined or torpedoed late last night in the North Sea. She went down in twenty minutes and passengers and members of her crew, totaling 43 persons, took to small boats and all landed safely at Ramsgate, British Schooner Wrecked.

The Cathay was a Danish steamer. She was built in 1898 and of 2,598 tons register. She measured 296 feet long and was owned in Copenhagen. The British Schooner Wrecked. Earl of Latham, was sunk by a German submarine off Kinsale on the Irish coast. The crew was permitted to take to small boats and was rescued by a trawler. The submarine fired five shells at the schooner before she sank.

BELGIAN PRISONERS WERE GIVEN A WELCOME BY RESIDENTS OF HOME CITY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Amsterdam, May 6.—Seventy Belgian prisoners who recently passed through Bruges in charge of a guard of German soldiers, were warmly welcomed by the residents of the town, notwithstanding the orders of the German municipal authorities that no demonstrations were to be made in their honor. The prisoners, who included infantrymen and engineers, were captured near Driegraeben. As they passed down the streets of Bruges, the people of the town gathered along the sidewalks. Hats and handkerchiefs were waved in the air and there were shouts of "Vive la Belgique." "Leve België" and "Leve België." The prisoners smiled and answered back "Courage, comrades." Meanwhile the crowd showered them with gifts of fruit, chocolate, sandwiches and cheese.

While the enthusiasm was at its height, some of the German horsemen charged the crowd. It is said that the municipal authorities will assess a fine against the demonstrators for the unauthorized demonstration.

REFUSE DOLLAR RAISE TO POSTAL EMPLOYEES IN ENGLISH NATION.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, May 6.—The British Postmaster General has definitely refused to grant the request of the Postal Employees for a war bonus of a dollar a week to meet the increased cost of living caused by the war. The bonus asked for was to be paid only to workers receiving less than $20 a week.

The Postmaster General stated that the rise in the cost of living is not by itself a sufficient reason for the present time for increasing wages. He regards this rise as a burden which must be shared in common by all classes in the country. Moreover, he explains, compliance with this request for the postal workers would necessitate corresponding grants to all government employees of a similar status and would therefore impose a very heavy burden on the Treasury.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Racine, May 6.—Mrs. Mary Kassalo and George Zozernick, a boarder in the Kassalo home, are being held by the police pending an investigation into the death of the Kassalo husband, Simon Kassalo, Tuesday night. TAFT LAUDS WILSON FOR NEUTRALITY

EX-PRESIDENT IN ADDRESS TO BADGER LEGISLATURE, TALKS OF WAR'S EFFECTS ON U. S.

URGES ARBITRAL COURT

Believes World Powers Might Organize to Make War in Future Impossible—Warns Against Apparent Prosperity.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, May 6.—Complicating President Wilson for the policy of neutrality, which he has so conscientiously followed, declaring against a change in the present international law which prohibits neutrals from furnishing foodstuffs and ammunition to belligerents, and in favor of an arbitral court of the greater nations which will make war in the future impossible, former President W. H. Taft addressed the Wisconsin legislature today.

Referring to the war the ex-president said: "We are in a state of anxious expectancy—a state of sorrow. For a time we are enjoying a feverish activity in many branches of industry. We must take care that we are not overjoyed and misled that all of this is real prosperity. When peace comes some of this activity will be sudden and the world will be in a state of a cable dispatch. Peace will necessarily change conditions of the world and new world. In our business affairs we must prepare for that change which will bring peace."

"We have been criticized for the shipment of arms and ammunition, permitted under international rule. The rule has always been that neutrals could furnish such things. As a nation we should place ourselves at a disadvantage and take the opposite view of this question. We are prepared to prepare for war. We must always expect aid from neutrals in case of war. It would be an unwise policy in my judgment to change this rule."

Mr. Taft complimented President Wilson "for the neutrality which he has conscientiously preserved in this country." "When peace comes, some of this activity will be sudden and the world will be in a state of a cable dispatch. Peace will necessarily change conditions of the world and new world. In our business affairs we must prepare for that change which will bring peace."

When peace comes, some of this activity will be sudden and the world will be in a state of a cable dispatch. Peace will necessarily change conditions of the world and new world. In our business affairs we must prepare for that change which will bring peace."

Mr. Taft visited the supreme court today with Justice Brandeis, Justice Winslow, presided over the court a few minutes.

Urges Less Politics. Less politics and better business methods in the control of affairs of the nation were the plea of William Howard Taft in an address Wednesday night in Armory hall in the University of Wisconsin gymnasium. An address of 2,000 persons heard the former president advocate a six year term for president, the establishment of the budget for the disposal of funds of the government, and a new construction in the cabinet to appear on the floor of congress and make known the views, and desires of the president in the conduct of finances and legislation.

President was the personal guest of Gov. Philipp. On Friday the city of Madison will become the official host when Judge Taft will be the guest at a series of breakfasts, luncheons, dinners and receptions that will occupy practically every minute of his time until his departure for Milwaukee at noon on Saturday.

Governor at Station. The former president was met at the station by Gov. Phil. Speer, Whitteit of the assembly, and President Van Hise of the state university. Three hundred persons saw the meeting between the executive of the state and the former chief executive of the nation and heard the "how are you Phil" and "how are you William" exchanged as the two waved hands. Mr. Taft smiled and exchanged greetings with them and smiled and chatted with his escort, then proceeded to the waiting automobile which, driven by Speaker Whitteit, started for the dining room visitor to the executive mansion. None of the Madison reception committee was officially present, Gov. Phil. Speer, President Van Hise and Mr. Whitteit alone accompanying the former president on the ride.

Governor Gives Dinner. The dinner at the executive mansion was given by Gov. Phil. Speer, president, the governor, President Van Hise and Speaker Whitteit being the only ones at the table. In the chat during the serving of the meal, politics and the affairs of state were the war and affairs of state. Education was discussed, the school situation in Wisconsin was mentioned and the last visit of former President Taft to Wisconsin was pleasantly recalled. The former president made inquiries concerning numerous Wisconsin acquaintances. At 7:30 o'clock the party left the executive mansion for the university where the former president addressed an audience that filled the great hall.

RICHARDS IS CHOSEN TO LEAD 1916 FIVE

Speedy Forward on High School Basketball Team Is Unanimous Choice at Meeting of Squad.

Jean Paul Richards, the fast forward of the Jamesville high school basketball squad during a part of the past season, was on Wednesday unanimously chosen as captain of the 1916 team. The election was held at a special meeting of the squad, called to order by Coach Curtis at the close of school.

Richards, although disqualified during the latter part of the season, played an accurate, fast and aggressive game, always giving confidence to the other members of the team. His basket shooting was brilliant and his foot work of a high class. He should make an ideal leader next season.

The matter of giving sweaters was up for discussion. Coach Curtis, after considerable debate with the squad members, has established a good precedent at the school—that of giving sweaters to the five regular players. In this case, Richards, Lee, Kalvelage and Jones will not receive sweaters. Curtis believes the plan a good one and his belief and ruling has caused an uproar among the three subs and Richards. Richards was disqualified last year, which bars him from receiving one of the gifts. Wierloch, who took his place, will be granted a sweater along with Capt. Stickney, Dearborn, Rau and Stewart.

PLAYGROUNDS WILL OPEN ABOUT JULY 1

School Board Decides to Maintain Director and Four Assistants With Four Grounds in Operation.

The four Jamesville playgrounds, which for the past two summers have been the source of much recreation and pleasure among the youngsters of the city, will be in operation again this season. The two months' period will commence on about July first, according to the decision of the board of education at a recent meeting. The board has agreed to sustain the head director and four assistants, an assistant to be placed at each playground. Plans for hiring the assistants have not been formulated as yet, and it is a question whether the same assistants employed last summer can be secured for this year. Walter Cox will probably be the director again this season, as he was well liked by the youngsters and by the assistants.

PETEY—TALK ABOUT YOUR FAITHFUL PETS

McFARLAND ADVERSE TO MEETING GIBBONS

Although Champion is Anxious to Meet Stockyard Pride There is Not a Match in Sight.

(By Hal Sheridan.)
New York, May 6.—Every time the match between Mike McFarland and Mike Gibbons is mentioned, the result is the same. Gibbons is the favorite, because he is not only ready but anxious. At one time, Mr. Gibbons betrayed no such undue desire to mingle with the young million-dollar fighter from Chicago's stock yards, but then Mike had everything to lose, including the fight, probably. Times have changed, however. Gibbons is about as simple as a middle weight champion as was Ketchel and those who disputed Ketchel's claim usually took care to get it outside of a ring. The phantom boxer that was Mike Gibbons of many moons ago, today is in addition, a hard-hitting wallpaper, as clever as any who ever came along in this modern ring era and confident that he can whip all creation at the right time.

When Mike was prone to dodge, it was Packey who was the world beater and he still may be just that, one day. Packey, who is a few years older, easily outclassed everything in the division in which he fought—the 133 pound class. Not only did he actually possess the wonderful skill he still boasts he retains, but he was too big for the lightweight who faced him. When he was compelled to admit that he no longer could make the weight, he simply dropped out of active competition and went to nursing along his real estate.

The very career of McFarland explains his reasons for avoiding, as far as convenient, the very lucratious match with Gibbons. If Packey were at his best, he would figure to outclass the cleverest of them all at his weight, but the point is that Packey in Gibbons, will be compelled to face a bigger man than himself, a terrific fighter and a veritable shadow. The tables would be reversed exactly for the Stock Yard wonder, and Packey never relished a beating.

It is axiomatic that a good, little man cannot defeat a good big man. Double Headers.

This is the time when the magnate welcomes old Jipie Pluvius with open arms. It takes only about eight drops of regular rain to induce the powers that be to postpone baseball games, but the circumstances of the present season have compelled them to place on the schedule.

Isn't that they do not like to see their hired athletes over-exert themselves in the early spring. The real reason lies in the prospective and season, when the crowd seeks relief from heated daily toil by venting their spleen on the down trodden by digging ditches or ploughing the soil. He only puts up with the unkind comment of the fan because he loves the game so dearly.

The double header is a real blessing to the magnate nowadays because the public has become critical and demands real baseball by the best talent and in some places, the best talent has been made unavailable by Federal encroachments. So the various clubs joyously welcome double-header days, understanding human nature and comprehending fully that the opportunity to see two full games for the price of one is a magnet that starts the turnstile clicking early and often on what otherwise might be a dull afternoon.

GOLF CLUB SECURES EXPERT'S SERVICES

H. B. Wussaw, Professional Golfer, Will Have General Supervision of Links and Games.

At a meeting of the members of the Janesville Golf club on Wednesday evening at the Gazette library, it was decided to employ H. B. Wussaw, a professional golfer, formerly with the Country club at Little Rock, Ark., to have charge of instruction and general supervision of the games and greens at the local grounds.

Mr. Wussaw comes highly recommended to the Janesville club. He was trained under Hackbarth, one of the well known professionals of the country and has demonstrated his ability as an instructor and as a person capable of overseeing details in connection with the links and with the arrangement of games and tournaments.

In his work at the local club he will have supervision of the care of the green and will act with the committees on greens and games.

Added interest in golf will result from the hiring of an expert, the directors believe, as all novices at the game will receive careful instruction and a schedule of hours will be arranged. Special instruction can also be secured if desired. Many of the women will take advantage of this opportunity to learn the game of golf, it is expected, and the links will be used next year as never before.

There was a good attendance at the meeting last night and considerable enthusiasm was shown in the proposal to hire a professional. Dr. F. B. Farnsworth presided.

SPORTSMAN MEETING TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Sportsmen interested in game protection and propagation are urged to attend the annual meeting of the Rock County Rod and Gun club which will be held at the assembly rooms of the city hall Friday evening, beginning at eight o'clock. The club has sent each member a detailed report of the work accomplished and the financial transactions, and all have been urged to attend the meeting.

REICH IS KNOCKED OUT BY JIM COFFEY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, May 6.—Big Jim Coffey, the Dublin giant, who is after the crown won by Jess Willard, last night knocked out Al Reich, the New York heavyweight, in the third round of a scheduled ten round mill. After two rounds, in which Coffey had a point advantage, the Dublin giant rushed Reich, causing him to break ground in the third. A right to the jaw followed by a pile driver left to the body decided the battle. Coffey weighed 200 and Reich 203 pounds.

THREE TEN ROUNDS AT APPLETON TONIGHT.

Appleton, Wis., May 6.—Three ten round bouts will feature the boxing show of the Appleton A. C. in Armory G tonight. The main attraction is the bout between Bug Gorman of Neenah, and Young Mahoney of Racine. They will meet at catch weights, but it is certain the men will be near the middleweight figure. Freddie Andrews of Milwaukee, and Young White of Oshkosh, will clash at 135 pounds. The former, who is a sparring partner of Ad Wolcott, is given the edge because of his greater experience. Mike Dembrovsky of Menasha, and Ed Sharp of Appleton, will meet in the other go.

NO-HIT GAME LIST SHOWS FOUR GIANTS

Mathewson Has Pitched Two No Hit Games in His Long Record.—Wiltee and Rucker Turned Trick.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, May 6.—When Rube Marquard pitched that no-hit game against Brooklyn recently he did something which is the ambition of every pitcher who ever twirled in the major leagues. It is no easy task and a no-hit game in the major leagues today is a deserving credential for admission to the baseball of fame. It is a more difficult task to pitch a no-hit game nowadays than it was years ago. Batemen, while they don't hit any harder and in many instances are as much smarter and trickier. The test is performed occasionally in the minor leagues.

In the list of no-hit games in the major leagues in the past dozen or more years, it is a significant fact that four of the Giant pitchers have realized this ambition. Mathewson stands unique among the National League pitchers as being the man to pitch two no-hit games. He pitched the first in 1901 against St. Louis and again in 1905 he twirled a no-hit game against the Chicago Cubs.

George Wiltee, the veteran south-paw, who is now manager of Jersey City, pitched a remarkable game against the Phillies in 1908, when he traveled ten innings without allowing a hit. Big Jeff Tesreau got into the carved circle of pitchers in 1902 in Philadelphia, when he shut out the Phillies. Red Ames pitched against Brooklyn for nine innings in the opening game of 1909 without allowing a hit, but he lost the game in the thirteenth inning.

"Nap" Rucker, of Brooklyn, has a no-hit game to his credit. In 1908

Rucker didn't allow Boston a single hit. Last year the performance of young George Davis, the collegian of the Boston Braves, when he pitched a no-hit game against Philadelphia, was a remarkable piece of pitching for a novice.

OLDFIELD'S MECHANIC NOW DRIVING AUTO FOR BRITISH OFFICER.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
General Headquarters, British Army, France May 6.—Barney Oldfield's old mechanic, Harry Breen, who has swept around the track with him on the Indianapolis Speedway and elsewhere in the United States, is now driving a car for a British staff officer at the front. He says the excitement of being under shell fire has the automobile racing game beaten.

Breen hails from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was born forty-one years ago of a Danish mother and British father. The British father was the lever that got Breen into the British army. Leaving a prosperous garage business in Pittsburgh, he hurried to England and enlisted. His qualities as expert mechanic and skillful, fearless driver insured instant service at General Headquarters, where such men are at premium. The superior country roads of France, which are kept in a remarkable state of fitness notwithstanding the war, give Breen an opportunity for imagining the still with Oldfield on the track trying to break a record.

"The fatal flaw in the playing of the Yale team thus far has been a lack of consistency in hitting. The Yale nine has won eight out of nine games with college opponents. It's a fatal flaw, indeed, which reduces a percentage to a paltry 88%.

The Phillies are trying the squeeze often and successfully more times than not. Pat Moran, the field marshal, who just now is tearing things up, seems to be enamored with the play. Byrne is his mainspring at putting it through.

URGES ATTENDANCE AT STATE TOURNEY

Secretary of State Golf Association Reminds of Event at Blue Mounds Club in July.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Milwaukee, Wis., May 6.—"I would most strongly urge your club to re-member in fixing its golf schedule for the coming season, to remember that the state golf tournament will be held at the Blue Mound Country club the week beginning July 26, and to leave your own schedule open to allow your members to attend the state tournament."

This is the spirit of letters being sent out to all the state golf clubs by Secretary Guy F. Gregg of the state association, and will especially apply to Janesville, for this city's golfers are always notable figures at the annual state golf tournaments, especially in the last few years.

"To find that the state clubs have in one or two instances in the last few years overlooked the state tournament in fixing dates for local events, and hope this can be avoided this year," added Mr. Gregg. "This will especially apply to cities in the inter-urban league, like Sheboygan, Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Manitowish, where they have many inter-city contests. The program will be changed again this year to prevent the congestion experienced last year, and give every golfer in the state opportunity to compete. We want to make this tournament a meeting place for every sort of a duffer or expert and have therefore decided against a proposal to limit entries to those of a certain scale of efficiency at the game."

There will be a meeting early in June of the directors, one representative from each club, to decide upon a schedule.

IT'S a double-riveted cinch to get tobacco satisfaction from the Real Tobacco Chew. All the good of the rich tobacco—and a small chew satisfies.

Next to getting it themselves the thing men like best is to tell a friend about the Real Tobacco Chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED, RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

ABSURD COMPLAINTS.

The continual complaint that United States is aiding the allies in the present war is absolutely untrue on facts. It is certain the war is being fought out along lines of modern ideas. The use of old fashioned machines to throw hand grenades, the use of asphyxiating gas, the shooting down of soldiers seeking safety in flight from trenches so infested, is perhaps modern science but in the case of the charge so bitterly formulated by German sympathizers that America is prolonging the war by supplying the allies with guns and ammunition, there is revealed the same peculiar assumption that underlies one German complaint against Belgium. Why should Belgium have run to arms when all that Germany asked was free passage, with full prices paid for value received and generous immunity for any involvement suffered by the Belgians? Belgium should have acquiesced, the German armies would have crossed into France, the French armies would have been destroyed—and then comes the assumption: the French would surely have been beaten. The possibility of the French not being beaten, the human possibility of the Germans being compelled to retreat through Belgium followed by hostile armies who would be justified in treating the Belgians as their enemies—these things do not seem to have entered into the German reckoning, which, as the phrase goes, is based on the metaphysical necessity of a German victory. And thus, in the case of American munitions for the allies, it is assumed that if American supplies were not forthcoming, the war would be shortened—by a German victory. The argument is ridiculous. The French won the battle of the Marne and shattered the German dream, without the aid of American shells. The Russians saved Warsaw in October without American guns or powder. The German advance as a whole was broken before American resources began to affect the situation. If Great Britain and France were deprived of supplies from this country, they would not make peace upon Germany's terms; they would only build more and more ammunition factories and the deadlock in the trenches would continue. We do not wish to present the point too far, but plainly there is reason for asserting that once a German victory is not assumed as certain, the provisioning of the allies from America is actually working for a shortening of hostilities.

STINGING REBUKE.

Admiral Peary was given a well deserved and stinging rebuke by Secretary of State Bryan in a recent address for his talk at a banquet. An eastern exchange looks on the matter as a well deserved taking to task of a man who talked too much and not wisely. No rebuke was ever better deserved than that which Secretary Bryan administered to Rear-Admiral Peary for the silly assertion about our national flag, which was made at a recent republican banquet in this city. "We cannot stand still," said Peary; "a hundred years hence we shall either be obliterated as a nation or we shall occupy the entire North American world segment." Indeed, the only fault to be found with Mr. Bryan's comment on this nonsense is in the importance that he attaches to it. "Such a prediction for man obscure man," he says, "would be foolishly from one in his (Peary's) position it is little less than a crime." There may be persons in this country who think that because Peary discovered the North Pole his views on the destiny of nations are entitled to special weight; but we cannot believe that the number of such persons is sufficient to be of any moment. Men of common sense will not waste their time in possession of the fortune and persistence which carried him to the Pole any warrant for believing that he is endowed with supernatural powers of mind. And unless we ascribe to him such powers, there is no reason why, when he talks stupid nonsense, we should imagine that it is anything but what it is.

THE TWINE PLANT.

The Twine Binder Plant at the Waupun state prison, is a snare and delusion, and would never have been installed but for the autocracy of a board of control—accountable to nobody—backed by a legislature which recognized no limit to expenditures. Before the enterprise was launched a legislative committee made a thorough investigation of the nine state plants in operation, and made an exhaustive report which showed that but one of the nine recorded any semblance of source. Yet in spite of this unfavorable report, the enterprise went ahead and invested $500,000 of the people's money in a rat-hole which had a hole in each end. It is high time to call a halt on any business which shows a loss of $60,000 a year. The only people who have made any money out of the twine plant are the poor fellows who bought on time and then forgot to pay, but there is no reason why the taxpayers should be asked to continue this sort of philanthropy. The twine plant is a monument of reform folly. Put it out and forget it. When this is done and the mill tax abolished, a long stride will be taken toward practical economy.

The government owns eight hundred and forty public buildings, where a small army of men and women are employed, including clerks, janitors, scrub women, etc. The latter work five hours a day and are paid $27.50 per month. The annual pay roll involved is $2,700,000, but the last congress cut the appropriation $50,000, and as a result these employees are required to take an eight-day vacation, without being paid during the months of May and June. That's on a par with the policy which requires employer to travel at their own expense, and then wait for six months or more, to be reimbursed. The government has a large head for business.

Colonel Roosevelt has no claim on the party which he deserted and then wrought in to win a gratuity personal grievance. The surest way for the republican party to aid President Wilson in his ambition to succeed himself, is to encourage the erratic colonel to "shy his hat in the ring" as the party's candidate in 1916. The leopard seldom changes his spots, and the colonel shows no disposition to conciliate the party which he so grievously wronged. He is the one man responsible for the present democratic administration, and the people so understand it.

The ruthless searcher for wild flowers who tear the tender little blossoms up by the roots ought to remember that care should be taken to protect the flowers just as the birds and beasts are so that others may enjoy them. Talk about the Russian hordes, why a few thoughtless visitors to the woods can do more damage in a half day in wood lot than a hundred botanists would do in a year. Save the flowers' roots if you must pick the blossoms.

Colliers sees a great democratic gain in the late election, and points with pride to the vote that the democratic candidate in Chicago obtained at the recent election when the issue was a clean cut national problem of the "full dinner pail or not." Perhaps the next general election will tell a different story and like Uncle Joe Cannon the democratic party will find it not so much because it has a "housemaid's knee" obtained dodging issues.

California is enjoying a taste of real winter weather and the tourists who went west to escape the cold spring wish they were back home in their furnace heated homes or steam heated apartments. However, it will be warm and sunny on the Pacific slope soon and people will forget the few days of discomfort.

Now that all differences have been adjusted at the Y. M. C. A. we may expect the membership roll to jump to astounding numbers, perhaps not all at once but before the fall season opens. Janesville should be proud of its Y. M. C. A. and the men who made such a building and organization possible.

Summer resorts are putting on their gala togs and preparing for the annual rush of business but thus far the interest in the vacation period has merely been confined to reading the gala colored catalogues of where to go. Later when the weather becomes warm the exodus will begin.

It will soon be time to open the city playgrounds again and money can not be better invested than in securing good first class conductors of this important branch of civic life. Keeping the boys and girls interested in genuine out of door sports is worth while.

Golfers will be going full swing shortly and then we can hear stories of the wonderful drives this one or that one made or the low score or how Colonel Bogey was vanquished—when no one was looking—on such and such a day. Great game, golf.

Thus far the legislature has not tried to regulate the university athletics but perhaps if an investigating committee was put at work it might put some pep into the players on the various teams so that a few victories might be recorded to their credit.

The grave college graduate is even now preparing the profound oration on how to remedy all the existing evils at one full sweep to be delivered at graduation day before they take up the life work of weighing out groceries or dusting the home.

In making your plans for summer vacations do not forget that right at home exceptional advantages for outings are offered. Perhaps the only reason they are not appreciated is that they cost so little and are so easy to obtain.

Where is this plan for the censorship of the moving picture films that was taken up so seriously some months ago? Nothing apparently doing along this line just at present and the pictures that are objectionable are still displayed.

The "jawharker" still is to be found in Janesville. They persist in cutting across the down town corners while on foot and are most hurt and peeved if the traffic policeman insists they walk on the cross walks.

The rest rooms in the hitch barns are much appreciated and speak well for the activity of the civic league ladies who are devoting so much time and thought for the betterment of the city as a whole.

President Taft is enjoying his visit at Madison. Perhaps if the proper inducements were made to him he might move to Madison and become head of the state university. Not a bad idea, is it?

Professors in the Eastern Universities have discovered a

which is the dental germ-disease that loosens human teeth.

Heretofore dentists had to tell patients that there was no hope of saving the teeth once this disease got a hold of them.

Now it is different. I am now treating this condition with good results. My patients tell me their loose teeth tighten up at once. Their gums cease to bleed upon the slightest touch as heretofore.

Their stomach disturbances vanish because the constant oozing of pus from gums ceases.

Pus poisons the whole system.

CLEAN-UP COMMITTEE

TO GO AFTER ALLEYS

Next Move for Better and Cleaner City Will Be Made at Meeting on Monday—See Good Results.

Janesville's alleys and similar privies are the next move on the list of the cleanup and cleanup committee, and a campaign to make such spick and clean will be pushed with vigor next week. The exact dates for this work have not been fully established by the committee.

Perhaps the most authentic barometer, or rather authority, on the results of the campaign just closed are the teamsters, who for several years have been in the habit of observing the progress of the cleanup campaign year by year since the idea first originated in Janesville. Conversation with them this morning brought out the fact that never before have they been able to secure so much work in the hauling of ashes, debris accumulated during the winter, etc., as during the present campaign. From this it is estimated that the cleanup committee has had fifty per cent more effect than those of campaigns of the past.

There are a few back yards that are still in bad condition, but the number as a whole is comparatively small.

While Tuesday night was the date set for the official close of the cleanup period, the number of telephone calls received morning to the study of the Rev. George E. Farlow, chairman of the committee, found it necessary to place a number of teams in the city yesterday. The rain of Tuesday made it impossible to some extent, and what had been left for the last was done away with yesterday.

To promote the idea the committee distributed 4,000 printed announcements of the campaign, placed in the business district, and also used 400 window placards in the business district.

On Monday there will be a meeting of the committee to arrange for the alley cleanup campaign.

LIGHTING COMMITTEE

TO RESUME CANVASS

Chairman Edward Amerphol Will Start Work Tomorrow Morning. Nearly Two Hundred Ready for Lights.

A revival of the campaign of the Janesville Commercial club to secure a twentieth century system of illumination for the downtown district will be brought about tomorrow. Edward Amerphol, chairman of the committee, will resume the canvass to secure the necessary names to warrant the actual work.

The advent of spring has made it practically impossible for Mr. Amerphol and the associate members of his committee to do much work on the idea, and as a result of various business activities the illumination plan has not been pushed to the extent as heretofore.

Already approximately one hundred and eighty merchants and property owners have approved the plan and placed their signatures on the list of a resumption of the canvass Friday morning and with the twenty-five members of the committee at work at once it is expected that by Saturday noon the matter will be such that it will permit an early start of the actual work.

Proposed plans for the lighting system have been there for some time, little left to do if the delinquent property owners and merchants will only give the word.

NORTON MURDER CASE

ON TRIAL AT BARRON

Dr. Pemberton and H. Silverthorn of Orfordville are Witnesses for State in Trial.

Dr. J. F. Pemberton of this city and H. Silverthorn of Orfordville, are state witnesses in the murder trial of Edward Norton at Barron, Wisconsin, which is being held this week.

The state, through witnesses, produced evidence that Mrs. Norton, who was a former Orfordville woman, was choked to death by her husband.

Dr. Pemberton has not returned from Barron as yet, but it is known that he will be called to the stand to testify of the findings of the autopsy performed on the body of Mrs. Norton at the Silverthorn undertakings rooms at Orfordville, Dr. Saitre, who aided in the conducting of the autopsy, testified yesterday of the marks on the Norton woman's neck, giving evidence of foul play.

The most sensational evidence submitted by the state in the trial thus far, was the account given by Ray Pemberton, who stated he was an eye witness to the death of Mrs. Norton. He was on the stand all during the afternoon of Tuesday and was a boarder at the Norton home. Fitch declared that he was in the room when he heard a woman cry and that he opened the door and saw her struggling with a man in the hallway.

Both men fled the room and stayed there for 15 minutes, he said. "Then I went out in the hall again and saw Norton standing over his wife. Norton said he had to do this because it was the third time she tried to kill me tonight. I asked him if he was dead and he answered, 'Not yet, but she will be in a few minutes.'"

Fitch said nothing of the tragedy until two weeks ago. He was rigidly cross-examined by Attorney E. T. Elver, Madison, counsel for the defense.

His testimony, however, remained unchanged.

The drawing of the jury was completed late Tuesday. It is expected that Norton will take the stand on Wednesday or Thursday. It is thought the trial will continue over the week end.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A Question.

Some time ago there was a meeting called by the honorable mayor to the taxpayers of South Franklin street to ascertain how said taxpayers stood on the improvement of said street.

When the matter was taken showed ninety per cent in favor of macadam pavement.

We, the taxpayers, supposed the meeting was called that we could decide what we wanted.

But that didn't do it. The case. The honorable commission decided on cement pavement costing twice as much as the macadam pavement.

We, the taxpayers, ask in the name of common sense why we are us with this unnecessary expense?

Besides, the two down town blocks of this street are paved with macadam pavement. Why not have all alike?

TWO THOUSAND HEAR

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT

SPEAK AT ADMISON

"I believe," said Judge Taft in beginning his address, that the single most important factor in the history of the United States is the fact that it is a democracy.

But I believe that term should be for six years or even seven years. A single term of four years with a possibility of a second term of four years additional, is anything but beneficial to the interests of the nation.

"I am voting the subject from the personal aspect, but from one who is not in it. Six or seven years in office would give a president time to work out a policy and put it in effect. With no hope of succession to office, he would devote all his time and thoughts to the duties of office and to the needs of the people. As the term is at present, no president can be as valuable to the nation the last year he is in office as he is the first two years. The last twelve months he is naturally devoting his time and his attention to the question of succeeding himself. And the result is a necessary neglect of the duties of his great office.

"I think the opposition encountered by the chief executive from the members of the house or senate is antagonistic or of another party is beneficial." continued the former president.

"A reversal of the political process, once in two years, gives the president an opportunity to see what effect his proposed legislation is going to have. Many times his proposed legislation is not in the hands of the people, but is projected to pave the way for legislators to obtain votes of their constituents."

Tells a Roosevelt Story.

Judge Taft expressed the opinion that too little attention is given to the question of the constitutionality of bills by the houses of congress.

"The validity of bills is an important question, he said. To much work should not be laid upon the judiciary. It reminds me of the appeal made by Representative Tim Campbell of Tennessee before congress when Campbell wanted Roosevelt to support a bill Campbell was anxious to pass.

"But it's unconstitutional," said Roosevelt.

"That's the hell of it between friends," said Campbell.

"In the opinion," said Mr. Taft, when the laughter had subsided, "the president has a right to be slightly toward Tim's views since that time."

Cut out or cut down appropriations was one of the suggestions to congress made by Judge Taft.

"I am in favor of a national budget," he declared. "I believe in a budget that will show what every dollar is needed on, how it will be expended and where it will come from. In this manner congress will know how appropriations are going to affect the nation's treasury. We are reaching the limit of

RUTH CAMERON

MISTRESS OF THE SITUATION

Three groups of people, each slightly acquainted with the other two and possessing but few points of interest in common, that is what we found when we drifted into a friend's house at afternoon tea-time the other day. We made the fourth group.

It must have been an awkward gathering, you say? It certainly might have been but wasn't and thereby hangs my tale. For, with a consummate skill and poise our hostess fused us into a congenial group, chatting like old friends, interested and interesting.

As clever as a surgeon.

As clever as a surgeon extracts a bullet, she drew the sting of awkwardness out of the situation.

Do you know what I call an ability to do a thing like that? I call it genius.

And yet genius that is not quite fair, for genius is a gift, a thing inborn, and social tact is not in the nature of a talent, that is, a natural tendency cultivated and encouraged.

Every woman should cultivate this tendency in herself and her children. There are so many awkward little situations in everyday life that to be able to deal with them gracefully is to smooth your own pathway and give pleasure everywhere you go.

Can You Talk to Your Friend's Friend?

You find yourself sitting in the trolley beside some one whom you know too well to ignore and too little to want to talk to—perhaps an old school-tim acquaintance, perhaps a friend's friend whom you have met but once or twice. Will you pretend not to see her and stare awkwardly out of one window? Will you say a commonplace word or two and then sit in doubly awkward silence? Or will you be able to chat easily and part with her gracefully? You meet some one who has suffered a great loss. Will you be able to feel sympathetically whether a word of sympathy would be soothing or painful, and withhold it or offer it accordingly?

The family skeleton of some friend has come out into the open. Can you greet her with a manner that shall ignore the business without making her conscious that you are trying to do so? You go out to an evening gathering and find it stiff and uncongenial. Can you fuse it into friendliness and congeniality?

"The Way to Learn to Write is to Write."

Perhaps you are wondering how one goes about to acquire this delicate and difficult art. That's as hard to say as to tell anyone how to write a book. Some encouraging philosopher has said the best way to learn to write is to write. So the best way to learn social tact is to practice it.

Cultivate poise and serenity; give free play to that sympathetic imagination which helps us to put ourselves in the place of others; and above all things, think less of yourself and how you are appearing, and more of others and what you can do for them.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a foolish little girl of sixteen, not pretty by any means, and not too healthy. But it seems that I cannot make my self appear as I should. I have only one girl friend and seem to be liked by all the boys I know. But here is the question: If they see me go into a room, and I am not there, will they be so, or three of them, come in behind me and never ask me my name? Then they wait until I sit right beside me. Of course one asks me to take in home. And like a foolish girl I am, is that all right?

(2) Now another thing that I cannot understand is they all seem to like me, but never ask me to go anywhere. Why do you suppose that is? If you liked a person well enough to say so wouldn't you want to go with her? Or do you think I am a little young yet and am not foolish enough to go with them?

(3) Will you give me instructions about manners, such as how to act so that I will be polite, kind, gentle and have everyone love me. I advise you to stay away from picture shows.

(4) Does jewelry make a girl look cheap?

(5) How a girl can take the price in being foolish that you seem to be understanding. A girl of sixteen should not be allowed to go to the picture show unescorted. And if she does go she can expect to be insulted as those boys insult you. For it is nothing less than an insult for the boys to follow you into the theatre the way they do, without paying your way, and then ask to take you home. If they had respect for you they would get for you and take you home. I advise you to stay away from picture shows.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: This year I will finish my work at grammar school and I want to prepare for some work. Would you advise me to become a stenographer? Without knowing you it is impossible for me to advise. Be guided by what your parents and teachers say.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Has tating a right or wrong side? I make quite a bit and have never considered that I have not long ago a lady told me that there is a difference in the two sides. A TALKING FRIEND.

Both sides are alike.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a little girl eleven years old, and I have time I ride on the street cars or train. I get sick. Please tell me what to do to prevent it.

WHY EVERY WOMAN SHOULD USE AN ELECTRIC

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

PREVENTS MOTHS.

One of the serious problems confronting the housewife each spring is how to store her wardrobe so as to keep them free from moths while out of use.

Outside of cold storage, the following is the simplest, most effective and most economical plan.

First, take each fur or woolen garment, beat it well with a light wooden rod, shake out thoroughly and brush carefully; then hang on a line for several hours exposed to the sun and air.

After this sun bath, shake and brush again.

Next, secure suitable pasteboard boxes, such as tailor use, and in these lay the garments neatly folded. Then seal up the box carefully by gumming a strip of wrapping paper around the edges so as to leave no cracks.

Tobacco, camphor or cedar chips may be scattered over and between the garments, but these are simply repellents and are of no value if the moth eggs are allowed to remain in the garments.

If the preliminary work of beating, shaking, brushing and exposing to the sun and air and the packing in the boxes, done carefully, there need be no fear of damage from moths while the garments are stored.

A SEASONABLE HOUSEHOLD HELP.

After your housecleaning is finished just look at your leather upholstery, furniture, cushions and table covers. If they are in this condition, will remove that shoddy look and that greasy appearance. Boil one-half pint linseed oil and allow to stand until nearly cold. Then add half pint vinegar and mix well mixed and bottle. To apply, pour a few drops on soft duster, rub the surface to be renovated and afterward polish with soft cloth.

TO PREVENT WASTE OF GAS.

Occasionally when cooking, something boils over and in time the gas jets become clogged up and waste gas to prevent, take your gas jets and boil them in good soapy water, then force dirt from each of the holes with a nail. Then try your jet and you will find it burns much better.

YOUR GARDEN.

If you have some very small, fine plants that can't stand sprinkling, just take a small funnel, hold close to ground between plants and pour water through funnel.

VARIETY OF FLOWERS IN ABUNDANCE NOW

Violets Can Be Gathered in Buckets—Lover of Nature Should Make Visits to Woods.

A visit to the woods these days is productive of much profit to the hunter after wild flowers, or the lover of nature. One loses much who narrows his vision seeking for one or two well known and favorite flowers. At this time a greater variety of flowers are in bloom than later in the season, and one has the added charm of discovering the first or earliest bloom of flowers which in ordinary seasons come later in the month.

Just now the violets in many varieties are of full bloom and can be gathered by the peck measure. Here and there one sees clusters of the bright orange colored flowers of the Puccoon. And again a clump of green and yellowish flowers attracts the eye. A close examination discovers a pom-pom of green fringed with queerly shaped yellow flowers. It is the Wood Betony, also known as Louse-moor, Beech of plants and High Heal-all. When the Italians wish to extol some one, we are told, they say: "He has more virtues than betony." Alluding to a European species of plant that was common about the new and cultivated in cemeteries during the middle ages as a charm against evil spirits, and prepared into plasters, ointments, syrups and oils was supposed to be a cure for many ailments. Our common American species fulfills its mission in beautifying roadside banks with thick, short, spiked up, light flowers that rise above large rosettes of coarse, hairy, fern-like foliage.

Then one may find spikes of the mitre wort, which on close examination reveals a flower smaller than the lily of the valley, but beautifully fringed. This plant gets its name from the resemblance of the seed pod to a bishop's mitre.

A variety of lupine or wild pea are also in bloom, as are spring beauties, white mustard, blue star grass, yellow star grass, anemone, wild geranium, early meadow rue. The shooting star is also in bloom and its long, narrow, indications point to a plentiful supply later on. In moist spots, an occasional Jack-in-the-pulpit is preaching the coming of spring.

Ferns are also well advanced, and now would be a good time to transplant some to that shady bare spot about the house where nothing but ferns will grow.

Field crabs blossoms are abundant as well as many other varieties of blooming trees. For the more hunter the early variety are up, though quite small and scarce.

Asbestos Shingles.

Asbestos shingles are now being manufactured in this country with success, and the trade has grown enormously. The new products are of the lightest weight, and fireproof up to a temperature of 2,000 and more degrees. They are proof against acids and weather, and last as long as a concrete building will.

As to Purity of Sugar.

Q. Am very much interested in your food department in Thursday's paper. To settle a discussion will you kindly state whether loaf sugar sold in bulk is the purest sugar that can be had, and that it is purer than the candies usually eaten by children?

Mrs. C. M. B.

A. There is no question that loaf sugar as usually sold is of extremely high purity. There is no reason for supposing that it is not purer than that can be obtained for the granulated type of the same high purity is easily procurable. It is true, however, that it is much purer than any of the cheap low grade candies usually eaten by children. A high grade candy made by a reputable manufacturer may be exactly as pure as the loaf sugar.

Avoid This Formula.

Q. Is it harmful to use as a preservative 1/2 teaspoon salicylic acid to 1 quart of green string beans, combined with sugar and salt to taste? Is the enclosed quantity of canning compound to 2 quarts of sweet corn cut off the cob, harmful?

Mrs. A. W. D.

A. Salicylic acid has a use in the treatment of perspiring feet and rheumatism but has no rightful place in any food product.

This canning compound consists of Boracic Acid and Benzoate of Sodium, and should not be used, under any circumstances, in foods. Borax is a forbidden preservative, although there is no law to prevent a housewife from drugging her family if she chooses to do so.

Question on Grape Fruit.

Q. Will you kindly tell me how to best prepare grapefruit. I have recently been told that to prepare with sugar and let stand over night makes grapefruit poisonous. Can one eat too much of this fruit?

Mrs. B. C. B.

A. Grapefruit is of great importance on account of the organic acids and various soluble mineral salts which it conveys to the system in a form readily assimilated. Grapefruit may be served either with or without sugar, according to individual taste. It is not true that it becomes poisonous when allowed to stand with the sugar. It does, however, acquire a flat flavor—the sugar and zest having in large part disappeared.

A delightful way of serving this excellent fruit is to divide, remove seeds and core in the usual way; add one spoonful of pure strained honey with a few chopped nuts. The grape juice also makes a pleasant combination. Certainly one may overeat of this fruit as well as he might of any other wholesome food.

Ripe Olives vs. Olive Oil.

Q. Is there as much nutriment contained in ripe olives as there is in olive oil? Mrs. C. W.

A. Ripe olives are valuable food products. The stone is, of course, inedible.

ROSA APPEARS AGAINST CALDWELL BILL BEFORE STATE AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 6.—Charles D. Rosa, assemblyman from Beloit two years and author of the mothers' pension bill now in effect, appeared before the assembly state affairs committee in opposition to the Caldwell bill, which would wipe out the state aid for destitute mothers. Judge Rosa said that where his system was adopted it had worked out cheaply and that the state has sufficient interest in the child to see that it had a mother's attention whenever possible. He did not believe that institution children should be compared with children brought up in a home.

Assemblyman Caldwell in urging the repeal of the state aid feature of the law said it was the duty of the county to take care of those who are destitute. Only a few counties had adopted the plan he said, and the change to the county system could now be made, thereby lessening the expense.

Glimpses of Married Life

"Good afternoon," said Nell coldly, when she opened the door and saw Miss Rudolph standing on the porch. She had merely bowed distantly to the girl on the street since Dick had returned the silly letter that had made so much trouble. The girl had taken great pains to avoid a meeting with Nell and had scarcely spoken to Dick. Nell stood silently waiting for Miss Rudolph to make known her errand.

"Please, Mrs. Morton, may I come in?" She was very pale. Nell held the door wide and she silently entered.

"Thank you so much for amusing him," said Nell, sinking into a chair utterly spent from the nervous strain. "It was a great pleasure. I have taken care of your younger brothers and sisters, so I am at home with babies. Now let me make you a cup of tea and a slice of toast. You do not look able to move."

"Just to show me you do not harbor resentment," urged the girl. Nell smiled her consent and the girl's face lit up with pleasure.

After all, thought Nell, "when her affected we are peeled off and we get right down to the girl, she is kindly and human."

They drank a cup of tea together in neighborly fashion by the kitchen table. Then as Mrs. Parsons came in Miss Rudolph took her leave.

AGED TAX COLLECTOR

Restored to Health by Vinol.

Corinth, Miss.—"I am a city tax collector and seventy-four years of age. I was in a weak, run-down condition. My druggist told me about Vinol. I tried it and in a week noticed considerable improvement. I continued its use and now I have gained twenty pounds in weight, and feel much stronger. I consider Vinol a fine tonic to create strength for old people."—J. A. PRICE.

The Other Check. and Then the Mix. The pastor of an Oklahoma church took his pulpit on a recent Sunday with both eyes black and his nose and lips cut. He had led a winning fight for the possession of the property.

Recalling a story of Olie Read: A fighting parson in Tennessee got into an altercation with a man who either did not know that his opponent was a clergyman or had forgotten it. Early in the fight the layman landed a hard swing on the preacher's jaw. The preacher dropped his guard and turned his face, receiving another corker.

"That's where the Bible stops," said he, removing his coat.

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY

By
GEORGE BARR M'UTCHEON,
Author of "Graustark,"
"Truxton King," Etc.

Copyright, 1915, by George Barr M'UTCHEON.

My gaze fell upon two tiny holes in the wall, exposed to view by the bright light of my lamp. They appeared to be precisely in the center of the spot recently marked by the emerald oblong. Even as I stared at the holes a slim object that I at once recognized as a finger protruded from one of them and wiggled at me in a merry but exceedingly irritating manner.

Sensibly I restored the lantern to its place inside the window and waited for the mysterious voice to resume.

"Are you so hoarse as all that?" I demanded when the shadowy face looked out once more. Very clever of me, I thought.

"I am considered rather good looking," she replied serenely. "Please don't do that again. It was very rude of you, Mr. Smart."

"Oh, I've seen something of you before this," I said. "You have long, beautiful brown hair—and a dog."

"I am sure you will pardon me if I very politely ask who you are?" I went on.

"That question takes me back to the favor. Will you be so very, very kind as to cease bothering me, Mr. Smart? It is dreadfully upsetting, don't you know, feeling that at any moment you may rush in and—"

"I like that. In my own castle too!" There is ample room for both of us," she said sharply. "I shan't be here for more than a month or six weeks, and I am sure we can get along very amiably under the same roof for that length of time if you'll only forget that I am here."

"I can't very well do that, madam. You see, we are making extensive repairs about the place, and you are proving to be a serious obstacle. I cannot grant your request. It will grieve me enormously if I am compelled to smoke you out, but I fear—"

"Smoke me out!"

"Perhaps with sulphur," I went on resolutely. "It is said to be very effective."

"Surely you will not do anything so horrid."

"Only as a last resort. First we shall storm the east wing. Failing in that, we shall rely on smoke. You will admit that you have no right to poach on my preserves."

"None whatever," she said rather placidly.

I can't remember having heard a sweeter voice than hers. Of course by this time I was thoroughly convinced that she was a lady, a cultured, high bred lady, and an American.

That plaintive note in her voice served its purpose. My firmness seemed to dissolve, even as I sought to re-enforce it by an injection of harshness into my own manner of speech.

"Then you should be willing to vacate my premises—or—here is where I began to show irresolution—or explain yourself."

"Won't you be generous?" I cleared my throat nervously. How well they know the cracks in a man's armor!

"I am willing to be—amenable to reason. That's all you ought to expect." A fresh idea took root. "Can't we effect a compromise—a truce, or something of the sort? All I ask is that you explain your presence here. I will promise to be as generous as possible under the circumstances."

"Will you give me three days in which to think it over?" she asked, after a long pause.

"No."

"Well, two days?"

"I'll give you until tomorrow afternoon at 5, when I shall expect you to receive me in person."

"That is quite impossible."

"But I demand the right to go wherever I please in my own castle. You—"

"If you knew just how circumspect I am obliged to be at present you wouldn't impose such terms, Mr. Smart."

"Oh, circumspect! That puts a new light on the case. What have you been up to, madame?" I spoke very severely.

"She seemed to be considering. 'I will come to this window tomorrow night at this time and—let you know,' she said reluctantly."

"Very well," said I. "We'll let it rest till then."

"And, by the way, I have something more to ask of you. Is it quite necessary to have all this pounding and hammering going on in the castle? The noise is dreadful. I don't ask it on my shape or form."

"They won't pay any attention to you," said she with a laugh. "They are fixtures, quite as much so as the walls themselves. You'll not be able to discharge them. My grandfather tried it fifty years ago and failed."

After that he made it a point to dismiss Conrad every day in the year and Gretel every other day. As well try to remove the mountain, Mr. Smart. They know you can't get on without them."

"I have discharged her as a cook," I said triumphantly. "A new one will be here by the end of the week."

"Oh," she sighed plaintively, "how glad I am! She is an atrocious cook. I don't like to complain, Mr. Smart, but really it is getting so that I can't eat anything she sends up. It is jolly of you to get in a new one. Now we shall be very happy."

"By Jove!" said I, completely staggered by these revelations.

"I have thought it over, Mr. Smart," she went on in a businesslike manner, "and I believe we will get along much better together if we stay apart."

Ambiguous remarks ordinarily reach my intelligence, but I was so stunned by preceding admissions that I could only gasp:

"Do you mean to say you've been subsisting all this time on my food?"

"Oh, dear me, no! How can you think that of me? Gretel merely cooks the food I buy. She keeps a distinct and separate account of everything, poor thing. I am sure you will not find anything wrong with your bills, Mr. Smart. But did you hear what I said a moment ago?"

"I'm quite sure that I did."

"I prefer to let matters stand just as they are. Why should we discommodate each other? We are perfectly satisfied as we—"

"I will not have my new cook giving notice, madam. You surely can't expect her—or him—to prepare meals for two separate—"

"I hadn't thought of that," she interrupted ruefully. "Perhaps if I were to pay her—or him—extra wages it would be all right," she added quickly. "We do not require much, you know."

I laughed rather shortly—meanly, I fear.

"This is most extraordinary, madame!"

"I—I quite agree with you. I'm awfully sorry it had to turn out as it has. Who would have dreamed of your buying the place and coming here to upset everything?"

She seemed to be taking too much for granted. "Much as I regret it, madame, I am compelled to ask you to evacuate—to get out, in fact. This sort of thing can't go on."

She was silent for so long that I experienced a slow growth of compunction. Just as I was on the point of slightly receding from my position, she gave me another shock.

"Don't you think it would be awfully convenient if you had a telephone put in, Mr. Smart?" she said. "It is such a nuisance to send Max or Rudolph over to town every whistitch on errands when a telephone—in your name, of course—would be so much more satisfactory."

"A telephone?" I gasped.

"Circumstances make it quite unwise for me to have a telephone in my own name, but you could have one in yours without creating the least suspicion. You are—"

"Madame!" I cried and got no further.

"—perfectly free to have a telephone if you want one," she continued. "The doctor came this evening, and it really wasn't necessary. Don't you see you could have telephoned for me and saved him the trip?"

It was due to the most stupendous exertion of self restraint on my part that I said, "Well, I'll be jiggered!" Her audacity staggered me.

"Madame," I exploded, "will you be good enough to listen to me? I am not to be trifled with. Tomorrow some time I shall enter the east wing of this building if I have to knock down all the doors on the place. Do you understand, madame?"

"I do hope, Mr. Smart, you can arrange to break in about 5 o'clock. It will afford me a great deal of pleasure to give you a stone. May I expect you at 5 or thereabouts?"

Her calmness exasperated me. I struck the stone balustrade an emphatic blow with my fist, sorely peeling the knuckles, and ground out:

"For two cents I'd do it tonight!"

"Poopedy!" I added as an afterthought. My blush deepened as I recalled the attenuated blazer in which my secretary breakfasted, lunched and dined without discrimination.

"For Gretel's benefit, I presume."

"Ah! You do know Gretel, then?"

"Oh, I've known her for years. Isn't she a quaint old dear?"

"I shall discharge her in the morning," said I severely. "She is a liar, and her husband is a potrover. They positively deny your existence in any shape or form."

"They won't pay any attention to you," said she with a laugh. "They are fixtures, quite as much so as the walls themselves. You'll not be able to discharge them. My grandfather tried it fifty years ago and failed."

After that he made it a point to dismiss Conrad every day in the year and Gretel every other day. As well try to remove the mountain, Mr. Smart. They know you can't get on without them."

Her calmness exasperated me. I struck the stone balustrade an emphatic blow with my fist, sorely peeling the knuckles, and ground out:

"For two cents I'd do it tonight!"

"Oh, dear, oh, dear!" she cried mockingly.

"You must be a dreadful woman!" I cried out. "First you make yourself at home in my house; then you succeed in stopping my workmen, steal my cook and messengers, keep us all awake with a barking dog, defying me to my very face—"

"How awfully stern you are!"

"I don't believe a word you say about a sick baby—or a doctor! It's all poppycock. Tomorrow you will find yourself, bag and baggage, sitting at the bottom of this hill waiting for—"

"Wait!" she cried. "Are you really, truly in earnest?"

"Most emphatically!"

"Then I—I shall surrender," she said very slowly and seriously, I was glad to observe.

"That's more like it!" I cried enthusiastically.

"On one condition," she said. "You must agree in advance to let me stay on here for a month or two. It—it is most imperative, Mr. Smart."

"I shall be the sole judge of that, madame," I retorted, with some dignity. "By the way, I went on, knitting my brows, 'how am I to get into your side of the castle? Schmick says he's lost the keys.'"

A good deal depended on her answer.

"They shall be delivered to you tomorrow morning, Mr. Smart," she said soberly. "Good night."

The little window closed with a snap, and I was left alone in the smiling moonlight. I was vastly excited, even thrilled by the prospect of a sleepless night.

"Britton," I said later, "I want to be called at 7 o'clock sharp in the morning." Noting his polite struggle to conceal his astonishment, I told him of my second encounter with the lady across the way.

"She won't be expecting you at 7, sir," he remarked. "And, as for that, she may be expecting to call on you instead of the other way around."

"Right!" said I, considerably dashed.

"Besides, sir, would it not be safer to wait till the tourist party has come and gone?"

"No tourists enter this place tomorrow or any other day," I declared firmly.

"Well, I'd suggest waiting just the same, sir," said he, evidently inspired.

"Confound them!" I growled, somewhat absorbing his presentation.

He hesitated for a moment near the door.

"Will you put in the telephone, sir?" he asked respectfully.

Very curiously I was thinking of it at that instant.

"It really wouldn't be a bad idea, Britton," I said, startled into committing myself. "Save us a great deal of legging it over town and all that sort of thing, eh?"

Dinner Stories

The fussy lady had noticed that the rude man sitting beside her on the street car had expectorated on the floor. The fussy lady immediately signaled the conductor and that official came in to see what was wanted. "Do you allow spitting in this car?" demanded the fussy lady.

"Well, no," replied the conductor, "but you can come out on the platform if you want to, lady."

While the travelling man was waiting for an opportunity to show his samples to a merchant in a little backwoods town in Missouri a customer came in and bought a couple of nightshirts. Afterwards a long lumberman, with his trousers stuffed in his boots, said to the merchant:

"What was them 'ere that feller bot?"

"Nightshirts. Can I sell you one or two?"

"Naup, I reckon 'I don't set around much o' nights."

In a backwoods district a case developed in the justice court which attracted practically every person in the village, and, as the day was warm and the courtroom a box-like place, the state of affairs soon raised the temperature of the room to an unbearable degree. Looking around him, the justice of the peace observed that every window in the place was closed, and turning to an old and ignorant constable who was keeping order amongst the crowd, he desired him to "ventilate the room." That official, however, had very little idea of the meaning of the term used, but he put his own interpretation upon it. Opening the door, he, to the intense amusement of the court, proceeded to clean the room, exclaiming, as he did so: "Here, out you go! Ventilate, d'ye hear! Ventilate!"

Man Still in the Majority.

E. Dana Durand, discussing in the World's Work immigration in relation to the census wars that among the foreign-born whites in the United States in 1910 who had been in this country less than ten years, there were 155 males to 100 females. Of all foreign-born whites combined, the males numbered 7,522,000 and the females 5,821,000, or 129 males to each 100 females; in 1900 the proportion was 117. These figures contrast strikingly with the sex distribution of the native white population, in which there was 103 males per 100 females.

Systematic Maintenance Of Roads Is Provision Needed

(By Allen B. West.)

One of the difficulties with our system of road building is that no provision has been made for the systematic maintenance of the roads. A road to be a good one must not only be built properly, but it must be cared for regularly and systematically. It is hoped that the road-dragging contest will show the value to the towns of well cared roads.

The "Good Roads Arbor Day" has the following simple truths about roads which it says everyone should know:

- (1) That the middle of the road should be higher than the sides to let the rain run into the gutters.
- (2) That loose stones should never be allowed in the road. They are a source of danger.
- (3) That a rut or hole should not be allowed in the road. It should be filled with small stones from the stone heap.
- (4) That only small stones should be used in repair. MacAdam's rule is that no stone should be placed in a road that the workman could not put into his mouth.
- (5) That dust becomes mud after the first shower.
- (6) That mud forms a blanket that prevents the road from drying.
- (7) That trees and bushes along well-built roads make traveling pleasant for horses and men.

Some of these rules do not apply to dirt roads, but the macadamized roads are being so generally extended it is well to be informed about them, and a clear understanding of all of these rules will help in the proper maintenance of the road. Most, if not all, of the towns of the county have road drags, the most useful implement for road maintenance yet invented, and the boys entering the road contest are to have the use of these drags. To a beginner they may be somewhat difficult of operation. To successfully operate a road drag the operator should have clearly in mind what he wishes to accomplish by its use.

To properly maintain a road at least four things are necessary:

- (1) The ruts and depressions should be filled up.
- (2) The crown should be preserved.
- (3) The ditches should be kept free from obstructions.
- (4) The road should be kept free from mud so that it will dry out quickly.

Let us see how the drag helps in these operations.

The ruts and depressions are filled if the drag is used when the material forming the surface of the road is loose enough so that material may be dragged from points where it is relatively high to those which are relatively low. The drag is used at an angle to the traveled way. It tends to produce or preserve the crown of the road, so that the surface will shed water.

Then if used after a rain when puddles are standing in the road it hastens the drying, as it spreads out the water and so increases evaporation. Then the surface is left somewhat sticky or plastic, dragging smears over and partially seals the so-called pores which naturally occur in earthy material and makes the road surface more or less impervious to water, i. e., so that it will shed water more readily.

The road should not be dragged when it is too dry for that increases the quantity of dust, which turns into mud at the first rain. It also breaks the seal produced by previous dragging. If the road is too wet when dragged it will be impossible to make it smooth, so here, as elsewhere, judgment is required.
